

4 Ways to Take Part

OREGON'S WATER STRATEGY SPRING 2023

It's time to update Oregon's plan for how we meet water needs for plants, animals, people and the land. Starting May 11, you can share what you think! Your input will help state agencies decide how to meet Oregon's water needs.

1. Join a regional community conversation

We are hosting conversations in different parts of the state. Find out more here - <https://bit.ly/water-conversations>

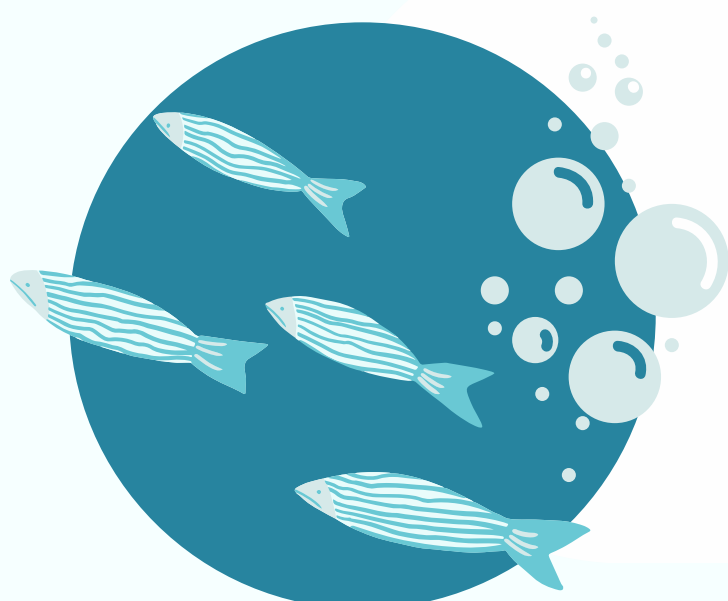

2. Share what you think online

Starting May 11, share what you think online at Oregon's Kitchen Table - <https://bit.ly/oregonskitchentable>

3. Host a Community Conversation

Contact us (info@oregonskitchentable.org) if you have an event or group this spring where you think people would be interested in talking about water.

4. Invite family, friends, and neighbors

Let your family, friends, and neighbors know! Invite them to join you in helping shape Oregon's water strategy.

Hosted by Oregon's Kitchen Table and the Oregon Water Resources Department